Whale Shark (Starry, Starry Night)
"Starry, starry night." Blank the backside blues and gray. The whale shark's back is dotted with white spots. Like a starry night, it is the largest known fish species. At the White Shark Aquarium, you can take a stroll from shallow water down to the deep sea and explore marine animals in depth.

The emperor penguin is the largest penguin species, standing to 1.2 m tall and can weigh up to 40 kg. They may seem clumsy on land, but they are amazing swimmers!

Polar Bear (King of the Arctic)
The Polar Bear Exhibit is home to the dominant Arctic animal—the polar bear. Its neck is longer than other bears. Its streamlined body makes it more adapted to swim.

Pacific White-Sided Dolphin (Intelligent Marine Mammal)
The Pacific white-sided dolphin has a gray back and gray sides, which is distinctly set off from the creamy white belly by a black border. These dolphins are very vocal. Check it out on the Dolphin Island!

Walrus (Bearded Appearance)
Whether it's male or female, its upper lip is covered with a broad mat of whiskers like a mustache, but it does not necessarily mean that the animal is advanced in age.

South American Sea Lion (Roaring Lion of the Sea)
Meet our South American sea lions at the Sea Lion Bay and experience their roaring beauty.

West African Manatee (Vegetarian Big Eater)
Don't miss the "mermaid", aka West African manatee in the Manatee Exhibit. They eat 30 kg a day, a true big eater!
