ROADSIDE ATTRACTION DRAWING CROWDS

Toshiaki Koshimizu, a visitor from Japan, says hello to a sea turtle on Laniākea Beach yesterday afternoon. The turtles basking on the beach are drawing big crowds of tourists, and neighborhood residents are unhappy with the traffic jams that result.

2nd banner <sup>(CALONA)</sup> by road had been left up all night. Needed tightening/trimming undo the knots. Joanne home and had put out handout sawhorse (but only one, not all 3). No turtles basking upon arrival. Conversation, man 30 y.o. in water w/ bag of algae feeding. Been in Thailand (maybe military) returned after 2 years. Said he used to feed all the time and it was OK then. I held up my feeding sign for ~20 min while he fed and ignored me. But had a pleasant conversation after - I told him many things had changed with more people coming. Said he wouldn't do it again. Used biting injury especially children not feeding. Conditions have changed and we have learned with perseverance standing holding the sign to pay off!
