Camping at South Point February 26/27: 1994

On February 26, while on a university sponsored camping trip we arrived at South point, Hawaii on the north side of the bay at Kawalaalo out on the point at approximately 3:30pm. While setting up camp a bad odor led us to a turtle (green sea turtle) shell, found thrown in a corner of the camping area. The presumption was made that the turtle had not made it's way to this area, but had been discarded after possible being consumed by the camps previous owners. The turtle shell measured approximately 25-30cms in length. No tags where found in the vacinity, nor did it appear that tags had ever been placed on the turtle.

I hope this helps, if you have any further questions regarding this incident, please contact me at 933-3544, thank you.
