IPad 2 sold out in the afterlife as Chinese pray for the dead

P.110

By NILUKSI KOSWANAGE
KUALA LUMPUR, Reuters

Apple's iPad 2 shortage has spread to the afterlife as Chinese families in Malaysia rush to buy paper replicas of the popular new gadget to burn for their dead as part of a centuries-old rite.

During the Qingming festival, also known as the tomb sweeping festival, Chinese communities in Asia honor their ancestors by burning fake money or replicas of luxury items such as flashy cars and designer bags.

The festival, which stems from Confucian teachings of loyalty to family and tradition, is also celebrated widely among the Chinese in Malaysia, who make up a quarter of the 28 million people in the mostly Muslim but multi-cultural country.

"Some of my customers have dreams where their departed relatives will ask for luxury items including the iPad 2," said prayer item shopkeeper Jeffrey Te as he filled cardboard chests with fake money at his shop on the outskirts of the capital.

"I can only offer them the first iPad model," he added, pointing to shelves stocked with the gadget along with paper iPhones and Samsung Galaxy Tabs.

Te shipped in 300 iPad 2 replica sets from China for the Qingming festival, which has just flown off the shelves and left him struggling to meet demand — a scenario Apple Inc also faces.

In Te's shop, the first and second generation paper iPads sell at a dollar for 888 gigabyte capacity, an auspicious number in Chinese culture. A basic 16 gigabyte iPad for the living costs US$499.

For some Chinese, technological gadgets will not be part of the shopping list for their dead relatives.

"They belong to the older generation. If you give all these so-called iPads, they don't know how to use it," said Thomas Soong, 61, as he set fire to a pile of fake money at his grandmother's grave on the fringes of the Malaysian capital.

"So traditionally we give them shoes, shirts ... all the necessities," he added.

REPTILIAN ROYALTY

A man holding a child poses next to an 826kg figure of a "turtle king" at the Beiji Temple in Greater Taipei's Yulian District yesterday. The turtle or tortoise is a symbol of longevity and prosperity in Chinese culture.

APRIL 9, 2011 Walked all over Nan-YOA Temple.
Saturday Frye-type juice handed out at entrance.
Many photos. Many people getting massage and mustard / Mt. plaster. Many sleeping. Learned that walkers don't always follow MAZU - instead walk straight to temple destination and rest.

Took city bus back to train station.
At street where bus let out - MAZU procession of vehicles, parade people, etc. But not Paloguin fireworks in the distance suggested she was there. 8:30pm Changua back to Dajia.

APRIL 13, 2011 1018 A.M. TRAIN TO Wednesday Chiayi ~ 2 hours 5 min.
ARRIVE ~ 1230 pm

TAXI TO Chiayi Park. Spent
~ 2 hours with "10th" stone turtle. Many photos taken. Used compass to test for magnetism - no deflection of needle found. Still aware of smooth "dimple" in top of head - for water blessing? Does it exist in other 10^{STONE} turtles in TAINAN?

walked a ways back toward train station,
then taxi to City God Temple (see p. 45)
see p. 57.

TAXI BACK TO TRAIN Station. Walked across street and ate at local restaurant. Buffet type. 533 pm train back to Dayi A.

Beauty of Historic Sites

01 Chiayi Chenghuang (City God) Temple

Chenghuang, also called Master Chenghuang, is a local patron saint. The City God Temple is the religious center of Chiayi citizens and has been closely related to the general public for a long time. Chiayi City God Temple was built in 1715 and reconstructed many times. The current Chenghuang Temple was completed in 1940.

● Location: 168, Wu Fong N. Road, Chiayi City

Wang, Jin-Mu, the construction contractor, is from the family of Wang, Yi-Shun, a carpentry maestro. He has a special talent for woodcarving. The bagua (eight diagrams) ceiling in the side hall, the gate at the main hall and the system of wood brackets on the top of a column supporting the crossbeam were all tenoned without any nails, which is truly superb craftsmanship.

The exquisite and true-to-life Koji pottery works on both sides of the side hall were the master pieces from two maestros, Chen, Jhuan-You and Lin, Tian-Mu. The statues of deities, ridge decorations, colored patterns, stone carving, door god and woodcarving inside the temple are beautifully made.

There are 11 pieces of precious historical and cultural relics, including the only tablet given by an emperor in Taiwan and the tablet of Wang, De-Lu. (Chiayi City God Temple was announced as a national grade 3 historical site.)

福康安紀功碑

乾隆52年(1787)福康安將軍率兵增援台灣，將林爽文擊敗，解除了諸羅城之圍；乾隆53年，皇帝御製十座紀功碑，一座立於嘉義，九座立於台南府城（現移置赤嵌樓）。

立於嘉義的石碑，高310公分，寬143公分，額刻御製、雙龍文飾，左書漢文，右書滿文，下馱鼉屬（龜座）。

福康安紀功碑的名氣很大，尤其平定林爽文事件，諸羅縣民英勇守城，因而奉皇帝賜名為「嘉義」，為嘉義最重要的史實之一。
