In November 2012 we returned to the Liuqiu Island again for cultural respect for the Liuqiu Wangye Worshipping Ceremony (迎王平安祭典) only held every 3 years. For several days a large beautifully constructed replica of a boat is transported for worship by hand around the island along with the Palanquin of Wangye. Using tons of 'paper money' the boat is then set on fire on the beach and entirely burned to ashes.

Successful sea turtle conservation programs that endure are best built with local communities as their foundation. National legislation and international conventions based on sound research findings clearly have importance. However, strategies for conservation are made robust and equitable when they integrate cultural and traditional components forged at the local level by the very people closest to the turtles and their environment. During 2011-2013, we (GB and KN) made five leisure visits to Xiao Liuqiu, a 6.8 km² island located at 22° 20'N, 120° 22'E, just 15 km off the southwest coast of Taiwan. The island is rich with numerous Tao and Buddhist temples serving as exquisite dwellings for an array of venerable Chinese Gods. Xiao Liuqiu's economy is substantially based on distant-water fishing and, increasingly, on ecotourism involving visitors from nearby Taiwan. The main purpose of our explorations has been to learn about and experience Taiwanese culture through the daily lives of Xiao Liuqiu's 12,000 residents. Paramount to these visits has been the nurturing of friendships with local families, based on a strong mutual interest in the conservation of green turtles (Chelonia mydas) occurring prominently year-round in the island's 12 kms of coastal waters. Seasonal nesting at low levels also takes place on several small sand beaches. Numerous turtles can often be seen foraging while snorkeling and from shoreline cliffs, perhaps rivaling such sightings in Hawaii. As guests at Xiao Liuqiu, our principal activity has been to listen and learn from our hosts, and to freely share biological knowledge about sea turtles linked to our own personal experiences with turtles and people in the greater China region, Japan and Hawaii. The key to lasting partnerships for balanced and sustainable conservation action is to build genuine trust and respect, with patience, at the person-to-person level. This presentation explores and photographically illustrates unique aspects of the Xiao Liuqiu culture relevant to current conservation challenges and opportunities. The following web sites provide background and insights into two of our visits: <<http://akepa.hpa.edu/~mrice/turtle/liuqiu.pdf>>; <<http://akepa.hpa.edu/~mrice/st.htm>>. China and all of East Asia have vigorous and growing sea turtle conservation programs that deserve praise and partnership to improve the status of regional stocks. We thank Professor I-Jiunn Cheng for kindly introducing us to Xiao Liuqiu during our initial visit in October 2011.

THE XUNLIAO GUANGDONG PROVINCE EXPERIENCE: RELEASING SEA TURTLES FOR RESTOCKING AND CONSERVATION AWARENESS IN CHINA

There is widespread global and historic multi-cultural interest in releasing or returning sea turtles to the sea for restocking efforts, conservation awareness, government-sponsored activities, and even for religious purposes. Sources of these turtles have included hatchlings from artificial hatcheries, captive rearing projects, captive breeding, fishery by-catch, and turtle rehabilitation facilities. Often the turtles are released in considerable numbers with advance publicity attracting many adult and child spectators filled with excitement and interest. The mass release of sea turtles for restocking and conservation awareness in

33rd ISTS Symposium on Sea Turtle Biology and Conservation, Baltimore, Maryland, USA

Mainland China occurs periodically but not predictably as to date and location. Very little information in English has been reported outside of China about internal turtle release events. These activities usually include the release of other marine life such as fish, shrimp, and crabs obtained from aquaculture facilities. On June 6, 2012 the authors were honored to participate in the release of 134 turtles and an array of other marine life at Xunliao, Oceania Point Resort, in Guangdong Province, People's Republic of China. The event marked the government's seasonal closure prohibiting the use of certain fishing gear in the South China Sea, including Guangdong Province. Thirty-four of the turtles released were from fishery by-catch turned in to the authorities by fishermen. These turtles ranged up to 99 cm carapace length and included 33 green turtles and one loggerhead all obtained from the coastal waters of Guangdong Province, such as Daya Bay. In addition, 100 others were captive-reared green turtles estimated to be 45cm carapace length. All turtles appeared to be healthy, active, and in excellent body condition. This presentation explores and photographically illustrates some of the unique aspects of China's spectacular sea turtle release phenomenon, as witnessed at Xunliao. Ideas are set forth for the possibility of enhanced conservation study involving both cultural and biological science perspectives. The People's Republic of China has vigorous and growing sea turtle conservation and research programs that deserve praise and partnership to improve the status of regional stocks.

Nihao Hello CTurtlers,

I am Connie Ng, a part-time PhD student of the City University of Hong Kong studying sea turtles in southern China and Taiwan. As part of my PhD dissertation work, I have conducted several research exploratory trips, some in collaboration with my mentor, Hawaii-based researcher George Balazs. I am pleased to share with you three articles with photos, in both English and Chinese, produced from these visits. The articles are on the USA website of the Hawaii Preparatory Academy for easy access.

Hope you will enjoy the stories of sea turtles and their cultural aspects in the East of the World, Land of the Dragon.

Best Regards,

「金門酒廠」承襲傳統古法，固態發酵釀酒工藝，存於地窖五年以上之熟陳，經專業師傅精心調配，將時間凝練與技藝緊密結合，去蕪存菁，酒齡越長風味越顯香郁，回味愈陳愈香，酒質芳香、甘冽、醇厚、適口，為金門高粱酒經典之作。

One of Taiwan's most treasured assets, this liquor merits the title of "The X.O. of Kinmen". Aged in a cellar for more than five years, this crystal-clear liquor combines the refreshing aroma of mountain orchids with a mellow flavor that is easy on the palate.

This year marks the Chinese Year of the Horse, the 7th animal in the annual zodiac in the full 12-year cycle, and also heralds the 25th anniversary of the Taiwan Lantern Festival (臺灣燈會), an annual celebration held in observance of the lunar calendar year's first full moon as well as the last day of the Lunar New Year to signify the return of spring and new beginnings.

This year's celebrations also mark the second time that the stallion has served as the mascot of the lantern festival since the start of the exhibition in 1990, which was also a Year of the Horse.

Unique to Taiwan, these massive lantern exhibitions featuring displays of colossal lantern sculptures have been hosted by the government for the past 24 years. Originally exclusive to the capital, Taipei, Taiwanese organizers have hosted the event at a different venue each year since 2001. This year, the honor of hosting the festival, which promises to be the grandest since the first

An Unprecedented Display for a Special Festival

Speaking at the commencement ceremony for this year's lantern festival on Jan. 3, Tourism Bureau Director David W.J. Hsieh (謝謂君) remarked that "This is the first time that the Taiwan Lantern Festival of the East will coincide with Valentine's Day of the West." He went on to appeal to lovers across the nation to bring their respective better halves to this beautiful cultural and essentially romantic exhibition.

To be held from Feb. 14 to 23, the festival promises to be the grandest and most innovative festival yet, said Hsieh. With celebrations to take place in a traditional district in the suburbs of Taiwan, the exhibition will be presented in simple surroundings, with less flair and theatrics than its predecessors. The creators of the sculptures to go on display at the exhibition will also seek to demonstrate a harmony between eco-friendly materials and the traditional style and design incorporated in the construction of the centerpiece lanterns.

A sculpture of the celebrity lantern "The Grand Radiant Stallion (焉耆馬)" unveiled during the press conference for the lantern festival in Chung Hsing New Village (中興新村). The striding sculpture aims to represent the spirit of the Taiwanese people aspiring to a greater future, as the village is located near Yushan National Park (玉山國家公園).

林炳坤為大米龜舉行開光典禮

●澎湖天后宮榮譽主任委員林炳坤在主委楊國夫陪同下昨天上午為大米龜開光。

(記者張弘光報導) 為澎湖天后宮整修爭取經費奉獻心力的無黨團結聯盟主席林炳坤，昨天以天后宮榮譽主任委員身分為大米龜舉行開光儀式。

整個儀式在天后宮主委，前馬公市長楊國夫陪同下進

行，整個儀式完全遵照古禮進行，林炳坤夫人也準備祭品拜拜。

林炳坤是上午十點準時抵達開始祭拜。開光儀式簡單隆重。隨後馬公市長蘇崑雄，前市代表會主席蔡光明都到天后宮與林炳坤會面交換意見，由於天后宮完工後，外界有很多聲音，由於天后宮整修經費是林炳坤在立委任內向中央申請的經費，林炳坤非常非常重視經費落實狀況，他仔細傾聽鄉親聲音，並詳細了解狀況。

下午林炳坤以澎湖縣義消總隊長身分，到澎湖警消分隊慰問。

Shirley Temple, iconic US child movie star, dies at 85

WOODSIDE, California, AP
 Shirley Temple, the dimpled, curly haired child star who sang, danced, sobbed and grinned her way into the hearts of Depression-era moviegoers, has died, according to publicist Cheryl Kagan. She was 85.

Temple, known in private life as Shirley Temple Black, died Monday night at about 11 p.m. at her home near San Francisco. She was surrounded by family members and caregivers, Kagan said.

"We salute her for a life of remarkable achievements as an actor, as a diplomat, and most importantly as our beloved mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, and adored wife for fifty-five years of the late and much missed Charles Alden Black," a family statement said.

Penghu Tienhou (Empress of Heaven) Temple Historical Development

Penghu's Tienhou Temple was constructed over 300 years ago in the Ming Dynasty; it is the oldest Matsu temple in all Taiwan.

Tienhou Temple is commonly referred to as Matsu Temple, or simply Makung, which is the origin for the city name Makung. Tienhou Temple serves the major deity Heavenly Holy Mother, commonly called Matsu or Mother Matsu (Matsupuo), who is the most widely worshipped of all deities in Taiwan folk religion.

Early pioneers, crossing the waters from Minao to immigrate to Taiwan, often accompanied by stormy seas, would specially worship Matsu to guarantee protection in the crossing. In the 23rd year of Qing emperor Kang Hsi's reign (1683), Shi Lang led the navy to attack Taiwan. After Taiwan was annexed, outstanding military achievements were attributed to the protection of Matsu, a reflection of the depth of Matsu faith in southeast coastal areas. In 1684, the Qing court ordered that what had been called Tienfei (heavenly concubine) since the Song Dynasty, would be raised to Protector of the Land and People Wonderful Spirit Declared Merciful Empress, and ordered all government departments to change the name Tienfei Temple to Tienhou (heavenly empress) Temple, to enjoy eternal sacrifices in Spring and Fall.

From the Qing dynasty, the Tienhou Temple has been renovated many times. In 1919, under Japanese occupation, renovations were made under the altar area, digging out the plaque commemorating Shen You Rong's Order to Repel the Red-Haired Barbarians. In 1922 the Tienhou Temple wall had tilted to the point it could no longer be used, so Penghu Taishia Association provided funds for the largest scale renovations ever—the present appearance of Tienhou Temple. Mr. Shi Bo Lan was in charge of the renovations and completed the work in 1923.

Tienhou Temple faces south with its back to the north, constructed with a front hall, main hall and Resting Breeze Pavilion on three levels with left and right side protective dragon halls, all forming a unified structure. Because the foundation is sloping, the building follows a rising grade. Viewed from the side, the walls rise in uneven undulations, a most unique feature of Tienhou Temple construction. The rear of the front hall and anterior of the rear hall act as coordinated opposites. Previously, the Resting Breeze Pavilion was used by members of the Scholars Association. Presently on display is the commemorative plaque Shen You Rong's Order to Repel the Red-Haired Barbarians, stone tablets and other cultural relics.

Birds of a feather ...

Statues of gods sit in a temple in Tainan City's Sigang District. When sculpting the carvings of the local gods, the temple sealed live java sparrows in the statues as a sacrifice, which led to complaints from animal rights groups that the temple was being inhumane. The temple replied that it would ask the gods whether or not they would take substitutions in future sacrifices.

Greater Tainan temple apologizes after 'bird stuffing' ritual sparks hullabaloo

ANGRY BIRD-LOVERS: Greater Tainan Animal Health Inspection and Protection Office said it is looking into whether the temple violated the Animal Protection Act

BY HUANG PO-LANG,
 TSAI WEN-CHU
AND JASON PAN
STAFF REPORTERS, WITH STAFF WRITER

Following a public outcry and condemnations by activists this week, officials at a temple in Greater Tainan yesterday made a public apology for the temple's ritual of stuffing live birds into sealed statues of deities.

The ritual took place at Kaisianjhen Temple (開仙真宮) in Greater Tainan's Sigang District (西港), in effect making the birds sacrificial offerings, for the consecration and empowerment of statues of deity the Baosheng Emperor (保生大帝), the god of medicine.

Cheng Teng-feng (鄭登峰), head of Kaisianjhen Temple's management committee, said that following the public outcry, the committee convened a meeting on Tuesday night and decided to make a public apology.

The practice came to light after someone posted a video online showing the ceremony.

In the video a temple official grabs a white Java sparrow from a bird cage and stuffs it into a round hole in the back of a wooden statue of the Baosheng Emperor. The opening is then sealed up and the bird left inside to die.

"This ritual has been practiced for several centuries. It came from a divine mandate by the gods. It is not a deliberate act to abuse animals," Cheng said. "We will respect the adjudication by the Greater Tainan Animal Health Inspection and Protection Office."

In the future we shall seek the guidance of deities and will respect the views of the public. Times have changed and we shall endeavor to make appropriate adjustments," he said.

Greater Tainan Animal Health Inspection and Protection Office deputy director Wu Ming-bin (吳名彬) said the office would collaborate with other agencies and talk to all local temples to end the practice of stuffing live animals inside statues, leaving the creatures to die by suffocation or starvation.

Wu added that his office is now investigating whether the temple's action violated Article 6 of the Animal Protection Act (動物保護法), which prohibits the maltreatment and abuse of animals.

When the video was posted on the Web, many netizens were in uproar, with some calling it a cruel, inhumane practice that should be stopped and calling for the lives of the unfortunate birds to be saved.

Wild Bird Society of Tainan secretary-general Kuo Tung-hui (郭東輝) said stuffing birds inside statues of deities by temples, for "illumination" and to imbue "magical power," is nothing but superstition.

Hsieh Chu-yi (謝主義), a master carver of statues of deities in Greater Tainan, said stuffing animals inside as "treasures" to imbue divine power had long been practiced at some temples as part of traditional worship.

Hsieh said when the statues of deities are encased in gold foil, certain deities will instruct a spirit-possessed medium (乩童) to place "treasures" inside them. Most of the time, the "treasures" are hornets, but other creatures, such as snakes and centipedes, are also used as they represent the animal embodiment of certain deities.

"As well as the Java sparrow, some temples use the yellow warbler and the crested minah bird for this purpose," Hsieh said.

 Def. ROE = may-june Keelung during often during flying fish ROE"

Sea turtles are also known to seek out and consume fish eggs in oceanic habitats (epipelagic). However, the extent of this foraging like other ecology has not been well documented in the region.

Coinciding with floating masses of Sargassum occurring off shore, eggs of flying fish are laid on the Sargassum forming a hanging net extending down into the water column.
