ROAD MY BODY GOES

TO ALL who long to know what life really is on a South Sea island, this book will come like a fresh breeze across a lagoon. It is the honest, vivid account of months spent among an unspoiled people who had never known white men before, written by one who has both the newspaper reporter's passion for facts and the poet's perception of beauty.

MAUPITI l'île nature...

 Superficie/Surface : 12 km²
 Tour de l'île/Circumference : 10 km
 Point culminant/Highest point :
 Te Uru Faatiu 385m
 Ancien nom/Old name : Vaitu

Située à 50 km de Bora, Maupiti est la plus éloignée des Iles-Sous-Le-Vent et la plus préservée grâce à son unique passe. Maupiti signifie « les deux montagnes ».

Les habitants réservent un accueil traditionnel chaleureux. Maupiti possède des sites archéologiques très anciens dont le marae Vaihau à Vaiea, les pétroglyphes situés dans la veine de l'unique rivière Haranai.

Ne ratez pas la fameuse plage de sable blanc Tereia d'où vous pouvez accéder au motu Aira à pied, et le point de vue du Mont Pahahere. Les petites baies se succèdent et la côte fourmille de marae familiaux.

A Maupiti, vous croiserez des aigrettes sacrées mais aussi des raies mantas et des varos (squilles) que vous devez absolument déguster. Quant au lagon il est splendide. Peu profond, il héberge cinq grands motus peu fréquentés qui feront le bonheur de ceux qui aiment la tranquillité et de la beauté.

Located 50 km (31 miles) away from Bora Bora, Maupiti is the most remote of the Leeward Islands.

Maupiti means "Two Mountains". The inhabitants await you with a traditional warm welcome. Maupiti features very old archeological sites, among which the marae Vaihau in Vaiea, the petroglyphs hidden in the bed of the only river, the Haranai.

Do not miss the famous white sand beach of Tereia from where you can walk to Motu Aira and the Mount Pahahere vista point. You might encounter sacred aigrettes but also stingrays, mantas rays and varos (squills) which are delicious.

As for the lagoon, it is gorgeous. It is shallow and shelters five large motus for those who like tranquility and beauty.

Située dans le même lagon que Raiatea, l'île de Tahaa est néanmoins bien différente de sa grande sœur.

Répartis en huit villages, cette île, calme et sereine, est entourée de nombreux motu parmi les plus beaux de Polynésie.

La profondeur du lagon permet d'en faire le tour complet en bateau.

La route traversière qui mène de Haamene à Patio, le chef-lieu, longe la rivière et une belle forêt de mape.

Du col de Vaitoetoe, la vue sur les baies voisines est impressionnante.

Du port d'Uturoa, des navettes effectuent la liaison avec Tahaa, qui ne possède pas d'aéroport.

Situated in the same lagoon as Raiatea, Tahaa Island is, nevertheless, very different. Divided in 8 villages, this island, quiet and serene, is surrounded with many motu (sand islets) amongst the most beautiful of Polynesia. The depth of the lagoon allows to make the complete tour by boat. The road crossing the island from Haamene to Patio, passes along a river and a beautiful forest of mape trees. From Vaitoetoe Pass, the view to the neighboring bays is breathtaking. From the harbour of Uturoa, shuttles and speed boat, ensure transportation to Taha'a which has no airport.

Superficie/Surface : 20 000 km²
Surface émergée/Dry land : 775 km²

L'archipel des Tuamotu-Gambier est le plus vaste des 5 archipels de la Polynésie Française. Il s'étire de Mataiva, au nord-ouest jusqu'à Temoe, dans les Gambier, à l'extrême sud-est. Seules Makatea et 4 îles des Gambier sont des îles hautes. Représentant seulement 6% de la population du Territoire. Les Paumotus ont leur propre dialecte proche du tahitien. Les somptueuses perles noires proviennent à 98% des fermes perlières de cet archipel. Mais la qualité première de ces terres d'Eden restera la pureté et la richesse des fonds marins.

Tuamotu - Gambier is the widest of the 5 French Polynesian archipelagoes. Makatea and 4 Gambier's islands are the only high islands. The inhabitants constitute 6% of the Territory population and use a dialect close to Tahitian called Paumotu. Luxurious black pearls come at 98% from pearl farms of this magnificent archipelago. But the first quality of these mythical paradises will remain the purity and wealth of the underwater world.

Surface émergée/Dry land : 79 km²

Rangiroa est le plus grand atoll des Tuamotu, avec son lagon intérieur de 80 km de long sur 20 de large en moyenne. Les deux villages d'Avatoru et de Tiputa sont situés sur des îlots séparés, au nord de l'île et disposent chacun d'une passe à leur entrée, faisant communiquer le lagon intérieur avec l'océan et permettant aux goélettes de Tahiti d'assurer le ravitaillement grâce à des quais abrités. L'aérodrome se trouve non loin d'Avatoru, sur une bande de terre de 300 mètres de large. De nombreux marae disséminés sur les 230km du tour de l'île témoignent d'un passé riche et trouble. Rangiroa est très prisée pour ses plongées extraordinaires.

Rangiroa is the largest atoll of the Tuamotus. The 2 villages, Avatoru and Tiputa are located on 2 separate motus, in the north of the island. They both have a pass at their entrance allowing the inner lagoon to communicate with the ocean, and offering sheltered docks and fishy waters. The airport, close to Avatoru, relies on a 300 m wide land tongue. Many marae spreading over the 230 km around the island remain a testimony of a rich and troubled past. Rangiroa is very famous for its amazing dives.
