COOK ISLANDS PARTY

Platform and Policy

PLATFORM: The Cook Islands Party platform outlines the basic aims of the Party. These are:-

TO LIFT UP TO INCREASED KNOWLEDGE AND PROSPERITY THE CHIEFS AND PEOPLES OF THE COOK ISLANDS.

1. To ensure the election to government of those men and women dedicated to the cause of greater prosperity and increased social welfare of the Cook Islands.
2. To extend to all Outer Islands of the Cook Group, opportunities for greater economic development and assurance that plans introduced to their islands will benefit them if they carried them out.
3. To maintain ties which exist between New Zealand and the Cook Islands.
4. With the House of Ariki now legally established we hope to re-establish some of our traditional ways of life, customs and culture and through this House will extend recognition to lesser traditional titles such as Matanapo and Rangatira.
5. To plan facilities for the encouragement of our young people to remain in the islands by creating situations where they will realize that they are making some contribution towards the economic development of their country and to assist them in the best use of their organisational activities and their leisure time in building a good society.
6. To strengthen our economic resources by good planning, in order that our lands may give us more benefits so that each of us may be more secure in our own islands.
7. To ensure the establishment of good laws for all peoples in the Cook Islands.

POLICY: The Cook Islands Party outlines in more detail the Party's attitude to particular sections of Government and what it will endeavour to do should it become the Government again.

It will not, of course, be possible for everything to be done immediately, and this is particularly so where considerations of our financial and geographical positions are involved. However, the policy is put forward as an indication of what a Cook Islands Party Government will endeavour to do.

In applying the various aspects of its policy, it has always been one of the Party's main aims "to mould all the islands and their inhabitants into one united team and people, in which with the co-operation of everyone, the benefits of social and economic advancement will be shared. The Party will continue to foster this spirit."

Internal Self Government

In its first policy in 1965, the Cook Islands Party expressed its support for the principle of full internal self-government as embodied in the Constitution. The only disagreement we had with the Constitution concerned some important matters of detail, and these were amended in accordance with the Party's wishes before self-government was introduced in August 1965.

After the experience of its two terms of office as the Cook Islands Government elected at the 1965 and 1968 General elections, the Cook Islands Party is even more convinced than before that internal self-government was the right decision for our islands. The Party said in its first policy that it believed it to be in the best interests of the people that they be given the right to run their own affairs through their democratically elected representatives. The Party's second term as Government has now come to an end according to the Constitution. The Cook Islands Party welcomes the opportunity provided by our Constitution for the people to decide whether or not to re-elect the Party for a third term. The people will again decide in a democratic election who their representatives will be for the next four years.

- (a) ALLEGIANCE TO THE THRONE - The Constitution of Self-government embodies our ties with the throne in right of New Zealand. The Cook Islands Party will continue to maintain these constitutional ties and will do everything within its power to strengthen this principle of association.
- (b) ASSOCIATION WITH NEW ZEALAND - Our association with New Zealand does not only exist now because of financial assistance from that country, but rather we recognise a much deeper reason which surrounds the knowledge that many of our own people are now residing in New Zealand. The Cook Islands Party will continue to maintain this association with New Zealand in order to ensure the continued wellbeing of those of our people who have made New Zealand their home.
- (c) COMMONWEALTH PARLIAMENTARY MEMBERSHIP - There is now a branch of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association in the Cook Islands, with our government holding Auxiliary status in the Commonwealth.

External Affairs

Under the Constitution New Zealand is responsible for the external affairs of the Cook Islands in consultation with the Cook Islands Government. Over the past seven years New Zealand has consulted with our Government in keeping with the Constitution and has acquiesced to our carrying out the Cook Islands Party's policy of increasing our contact and co-operation with other territories in the South Pacific.

During the Government's two terms of office:

- (1) Through the vigorous drive of the Party's Leader, in carrying out the Cook Islands Party policy of increasing our participation in Pacific Affairs, the Cook Islands has gained a place as a nation in the growing Pacific region.

(ii) In view of the ever increasing volume of "external" matters, the External Affairs Division of the Premier's Department was established and is rapidly becoming a busy corner.

(iii) In recent years many important External matters have taken place:

- (a) negotiations over a period of four years with other leaders in the Pacific have brought about the formation of the South Pacific Forum, comprising of New Zealand, Australia, New Zealand, Western Samoa, Tonga, Fiji and the Cook Islands.
- (b) As a result of a submission by the Cook Islands steps are being taken to review the clause in the Canberra Agreement on membership of the South Pacific Commission and proposals are soon to be studied to allow self-governing territories to be recognized as members.
- (c) The Pacific Islands Producers Association which was formed in 1965, aimed at fostering and promoting a combined approach to economic development and trade in the Pacific. The Cook Islands is a foundation member, and since the constitution of the Association was adopted in 1971, Mike and the Gilbert and Ellice Islands were admitted as members. There is every hope that the membership of the Association will continue to increase. The next conference of the Association is scheduled to be held in the Cook Islands in June 1972.
- (d) The Cook Islands is also a member of the Pacific Area Travel Association, an organisation formed to assist Pacific countries in the development of Tourism.
- (e) advanced training of Cook Islanders in Fiji has now been extended to include the New University of the South Pacific in Fiji.
- (f) Technical and professional advice together with fellowship grants and overseas training programmes now available to the Cook Islands through the South Pacific Commission and the United Nations Development Programme are all results of "external" negotiations in accordance with the Party's policy on External Affairs.

Cook Islands Legislation

In its first policy, the Cook Islands Party promised to review existing legislation with a view to its adequacy and suitability to present day conditions, and that as improvements were decided on, new legislation would be introduced. To assist the Government in this work arrangements were made to appoint a New Zealand lawyer as Advocate-General of the Cook Islands, and to obtain the services of a fully qualified member of his staff to prepare new bills for consideration by the Legislative Assembly.

As a result, over 140 Acts have been passed by the Assembly since self-government was introduced. Some of these improve the old laws and bring them up to date. Others are completely new and have been needed either because there were no matters under self-government or deny rights by the old laws, or to give proper authority so that new Cook Islands policies could be introduced. Many of these new laws are mentioned in other sections.

National Concepts

The two basic aims of a Cook Islands Party Government namely: "To lift up to increased knowledge and prosperity the chiefs and peoples of the Cook Islands" - Atu - "to mould all the islands and their inhabitants into one united land and people".

- (a) progress of development such as the Aitutaki Banana scheme for pineapples, in Hauhau for citrus, for Copra in the North, a pineapples scheme in Atiu, fisheries in general, while new industries and tourism for Rarotonga are measures of bringing into full use some of our resources, in terms of what each island can offer and at the same time gain some benefits, to fill the need of a united Cook Islands.
- (b) the promotion of a National Development Corporation and the preparation of a national development plan are two new concepts for 1972 - Concepts that a Cook Islands Party Government can very well carry out in the light of its experience during the last seven years as the Government.
- (c) the feeling of national pride is much evident in the activities of the growers' associations and their Annual Conference, the Women's Federation, the Youth Council, the Sports Association, Child Welfare, Uniformed Groups, the Religious Advisory Council and others, in fact, a new sense of national pride has swept the Cook Islands. This has only started since internal self-government was introduced, since the Cook Islands Party became the governing body.
- (d) shipping and communications have always presented problems for the Cook Islands, but an independent overseas Cook Islands shipping service has already started and there is every reason to believe that the venture could prove successful, particularly in view of the harbour facilities now available at Avatiu. The introduction of telecommunications and inter-island telephone services together with a re-organised information media, in the Cook Islands Broadcasting and Newspaper Corporation, our islands are becoming more and more of a unit than a group of scattered islands.

If the Party is returned as the Government, it will do all it can to foster this new spirit of co-operation and unity within the Cook Islands as well as with member countries in our Pacific domain.

Air Services

Prior to Self-Government, the matter of extending the Rarotonga airstrip to accommodate jet planes was turned down by the Government of that time because of land and people problems. Since the Cook Islands Party became Government in 1965 this matter was constantly discussed between the governments of New Zealand and the Cook Islands with plans and survey reports studied. A proposal presented in 1967, which was agreed to by the landowners concerned and the Cook Islands Government, made it possible for the Rarotonga Airport construction to be started. The estimated time of completion is sometime in 1973.

The Cook Islands Party supports the plans prepared for Internal Air Services in the Cook Islands. If the Party is re-elected as the Government again and as soon as negotiations are finalised, Air Services to the Outer Islands will be started.

Finance

The Cook Islands Party's policy on Finance is: "That if the needs of the people, in their economic, social, and cultural development are to be satisfied, and if finance is required, then Government, with the mandatory and constitutional powers available at its disposal must make such Finance available."

Certain guiding principles, however, are adopted to assist the Party in carrying out its policy:

- (a) On the basis on which the level of aid has been given by New Zealand for ordinary expenditure and grants for capital works, requires the Cook Islands Government to take steps to increase local revenue.
- (b) In its endeavours to raise local revenue it has been and it will always be the aim of the Cook Islands Party to ensure on behalf of the people, that the level of revenue raised within the Cook Islands is reasonable and that the means by which it is raised is just and equitable.
- (c) There is also the need to evolve a budget system that is flexible enough to allow for a development programme and the provision of government services to be carried out to full advantage.

During the Cook Islands Party's first two terms as Government, it realized that there had to be some changes made in the system of finance to meet an expanding economy and a changing role of responsibilities under the principle of internal self-government. Even with an orderly programme of financial administration, assuming that the resources necessary to meet expenditures will be provided and that expenditures will not exceed these resources, that adequate accounting control will be had over all financial operations, many new aspects of development or excessive demands on resources to meet public needs were continuously occurring from time to time that Government was forced to resort to loan finance to put into effect its capital works programme. Steps were also taken to increase local revenue. The Airport construction project in Rarotonga also played a disturbing role in maintaining a strict budget system. Many committees on Finance were set-up, while steps are now taken to prepare an overall Economic Development Plan, which will assist the Party in formulating future financial programmes.

If the Party is returned as the Government, it proposes to implement a financial programme as follows:

- (a) examine and analyze levels of government expenditure and consolidate the system of allocating priorities for capital works and development projects.
- (b) evolve a system of deriving a greater degree of income from direct government participation, which includes trading departments.
- (c) formulate a programme to effect government services and projects within the level of finance available;
- (d) promote investments in the Cook Islands by private investors including finance institutions, by offering certain incentive measures.
- (e) encourage further the development of agricultural activities and the establishment of industries.

The Party is aware of the necessity of a banking service to stimulate commercial activities, and it is most pleased to have been associated with the establishment of a trading bank in the Cook Islands.

Consumer Protection

The Cook Islands Party introduced a system of controlling consumer prices as provided by the Control of Prices Act 1966. The Party will continue with the system, while at the same time introduce legislation on trade practices and procedures applicable to the uses of weights and measures.

TE AKATERE ANGA O TE MONI

Teia te Policy a te Cook Islands Party no runga i te akatere anga o te Moni:

"Mei te mea e i roto i te au ravena kinaanga puapunga no te oraanga o te iti tangata, e ko to ratou anoano kia ariki ia, ko to ratou oraanga kia akasaitaki ia, kia riro ei oraanga akitaki ma te kiratiratu, ka rave te Kavanani ka te oraanga i te mea mana tei oraanga ia kua e te iti tangata, e pera te mana o te Kavanani i raro ake i te Papa Tere ka kua i te Moni, e ka ta angaanga i teia moni nei ei akasaitaki i te au tuanga e ngere nei i te pae oraanga kopape, e kia aka akitaki ia, kia riro ei akapunginga i te oraanga o te iti tangata katotea o te Kuki Airani nei."

Economic Growth

In its desire to raise the standard of living of the people, and to progress towards the aim of economic independence for the group as a whole, the Cook Islands Party continues to accord the highest priority to economic development. The Party maintains the belief that increased production and output, improved infra-structure (in roads, harbours, transport and shipping, etc.) an effective marketing system and more opportunities for industrial and commercial participation, greater prosperity will be achieved by all people.

Tourism is a new industry and the Party will examine closely its effects on the social and cultural development of our country, while in the same light, encourage those things that will contribute to our economic growth. The Party realises that for economic growth to be sustained and promoted, equal considerations must be given to the economic, as well as the social and cultural, aspects of development. It is also aware of the manifold forces of development in the fields of education, health, etc. and the necessity to harness these forces together with available resources, through national planning, in order to promote economic growth on a self-sustaining basis.

Through the optimum use of economic infra-structure together with the knowledge of modern science and technology, the Cook Islands Party will make available facilities, equipment and trained manpower for the development of our land, our ocean and our people. Every encouragement will be provided for investments in both government and private sectors.

Social Progress

Plans for acceleration of economic development will include, the extension of and improvement to, the cultural and social programmes. Economic self-sufficiency or economic independence, which should result from increased economic output, can only be reached through comprehensive programmes of development of our total resources. People being the paramount resource would require the need for parallel programming to produce a balanced society.

Aimed at social and cultural advancement and total happiness of all peoples, the total social scheme should include a comprehensive health service programme, a "living" education programme and a dynamic approach to community participation, made through the work of government agencies and voluntary groups.

The two basic aims of the Party, "to lift up to increased knowledge and prosperity, the chiefs and peoples of the Cook Islands" and "to mould all the islands and their inhabitants into one united land and people," are aims that are most vital for economic independence and social progress for the Cook Islands.

Political Division of Government

Through a system of democratic elections, mandatory powers are bestowed on those elected to govern. As we now have adopted party system it is necessary to give an interpretation of the meaning of powers of government by mandate of the people concerned. The Constitution requires the adult population domiciled in the Cook Islands to elect twenty-two persons to be the government. Under the party system, the Party that gains the most number of persons elected, becomes the government.

Although the Constitution says that all elected members of the Assembly by majority elects the Premier, the leader under Party system is really decided by the Party. The Party members in the Assembly just nominate and vote for that person.

When the Premier is elected he then chooses from among his members in the Assembly up to six members to form his Cabinet which then becomes the Executive body of government.

Cabinet is controlled by Caucus. Caucus is the main committee of government comprising of Cabinet and the rest of the elected members of the Party in power. This committee acts when Cabinet strays from Party Policy. Caucus is controlled by the Central Executive of the Party outside of the Assembly and the Central Executive is controlled by Party Conferences which comprise of representatives from all branches of the Party.

It must be remembered that Party Government or Political Division of government is responsible to those people who elected them to office. Their wish is paramount to the Political Division of government.

Before each election, every Party contesting the election goes to the people with a promise, its Manifesto, which includes a platform describing the course of action the Party would take if it were elected to govern. The Party that wins can say that the people who voted for them gave them the mandate to implement their platform and the Manifesto they gave to the people is the course of action they must take. This course of action is conveyed to the administrative Division of Government to implement.

The description of the "Political Division of Government" as introduced by the Leader of the Cook Islands Party, is the procedure that is followed in the Cook Islands Party Organization.

Administrative Division of Government

This comprises departments of Government of which most of these are set up by legislation. Public servants are appointed to their positions on qualifications and merit. They are paid by the government in power from moneys known as moneys belonging to the people of the country. Whether this money was derived from taxation, loans or gifts they belong to the people and while they are being paid as public servants, they are to serve all people because as public servants they are not expected to take political sides in the execution of their duties. They serve all peoples to the best of their abilities; they are employed by the political government in power to work for the country and all its people. If one would rather work for a political party that is not in Government and use his position as a public servant to influence the downfall of Government then his place is not as a public servant and he should leave the service.

The policy of the Cook Islands Party is to give encouragement to every Public Servant to do his best. This policy is actioned in many ways. Some of these include: a system of transfers rather than a dismissal; setting up of committees to review salaries; local training and overseas courses; ample leave periods and congenial working hours; scope for promotion and advancement, particularly in view of the Party's policy on 'localisation'; the Party will further examine a scheme of overseas leave periods for our local departmental heads and senior officers.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

The general policy of the Cook Islands Party on Economic Development is to provide avenues through which all available resources can be developed so as to achieve the aim of continued prosperity for all the people in the Cook Group and a state of sustained economic independence for the nation.

The Cook Islands Party realises the limitations of economic resources and available finance and therefore wishes to implement this policy through the following ways:-

Development Corporation

The government will set up a National Development Corporation for the promotion and development of all economic development programmes.

The Corporation, through a new approach, will organise and assist specific projects by means of giving management and expert advice, providing avenues for obtaining finance, and to undertake feasibility and research studies into new projects. The Corporation will carry out its functions in two areas of operation:

- (1) Direct assistance to economic development: -
 - (i) It shall concentrate its efforts in promoting economic development projects, government or private, already started in the Cook Islands.
 - (ii) It shall endeavour to assist the development of new projects, government or private, to ensure that every means of support is made available for the success of the projects concerned.
 - (iii) It shall provide a "development incentive code" in which concessions, exemptions and allowances available are set out for different types of projects.
 - (iv) It shall assist economic development programmes by means of making available government services such as the planning and research unit, services of departments, and other assistance that could be made available through overseas and international agencies.
- (2) Indirect assistance to economic development: -
 - (i) An advisory office on land development, when established in the department of Justice, together with the existing legislation on land use and land dealings (when their provisions are implemented) will provide further opportunities for assisting development programmes.
 - (ii) A re-organised approach to local government and community development activities, with emphasis being directed towards the improvement of roads; opening up of new planting areas; and other means of community participation, will undoubtedly result in assisting development and growth.
 - (iii) Government's programmes in improving harbours and landings; shipping services and the establishment of new overseas markets, are elements of indirect help for the purposes of promoting economic growth.

Activities of development which may likely fall within the immediate bounds of the corporation include: Atiu Pigeon scheme; Mauke Citrus scheme and cattle farming; New Otiras scheme for mangoes; Pines scheme; Electric Power Scheme; Land Sub-divisions; Internal Air Services; Tourist Support Facility Development; new industries and businesses.

Planning

A planning and research unit, with an Economic Advisor provided under the UNDP aid programme, is already established in the Premier's Department. The Planning Unit is in the course of formulating a Development Plan for the Cook Islands with emphasis on a three-year period for each plan, and the first Plan is for 1973-1975 which is expected to be completed towards the end of 1972.

Marketing Board

The Marketing Board established under the Primary Producers Marketing Board Act 1970-71, replaces the previous division in the Department of Agriculture, known as Fruit Control. The provisions of the Act allow for more growers participation, not only in its policy decisions but also through annual conferences of growers associations and representatives, where all aspects concerning exportable produce are examined.

Agriculture

The Department, as established under the Agriculture Act 1970, will continue with the primary functions of providing and improving the various technical and advisory services in order to assist growers and producers to increase production and output. More consideration will be given to existing resources already established, such as planting and cultivation of coconuts, coffee and other crops; encouragement to market gardeners, tomato growers and the improved breeding of pigs, poultry and cattle. Marketing promotion will be an additional function.

Fisheries

Advisory and demonstration services including research in conjunction with the South Pacific Commission into reef and lagoon fishing; and other overseas research institutes, will be continued. A programme for the promotion and development of a fishing industry for the Cook Islands has already started through the assistance given by Government of freezing and storage facilities in Rarotonga and the Outer Islands. The Fishermen's Co-operative will continue to provide service and government fishing vessels will continue to provide service and aid to the fishing programme.

Pearl-shell fishing will be the subject of a new, up-to-date Bill, of which the provisions contained in the Bill, had been studied by the Council and people of Manihiki, and this will soon be ready to be submitted to the Assembly.

CIMADA

In its efforts to achieve its aims, the Party is continually exploiting the knowledge, tools and products of modern science and technology. The Total Atoll Production System, developed by the Oceanic Institute of Hawaii, is one such product of science, which the Party considers as having potential in giving the people of some of our Outer Islands a better way of living. The 'System' is essentially a packaged programme which utilizes modern methods and tools in giving an isolated population electricity, refrigeration, water, vegetables increased fish production and a means of earning revenue. The Party's interest in this programme has led to direct involvement by applying some of the basic principles and concepts in the Cook Islands. To further its activities in this area, the Cook Islands Marine and Atoll Development Agency (CIMADA) was formed. The Party will continue its activities in this area as it is convinced that it can offer practical benefits for the people of our Outer Islands.

Co-operatives

Assistance to the Co-operative movement will be continued, which the Party still believes has an important part to play in the economic development of the Group. Every encouragement will be given to soundly based projects especially where the emphasis is placed on Producer co-operatives, but the Party also believes in trading and consumer co-operatives.

Industries, Commerce and Banking

A trading bank was established in the Cook Islands during the Party's second term of office. Every encouragement will be given to the development of industries and commerce, where these are small and predominantly of local composition, while companies and investors who are considered to be promoting and introducing schemes of a national flavour, will be assisted under the National Development Programme. Many important Acts were passed by the Assembly, over the last three years, which are aimed at fostering investments; these include the Companies Act 1970; the Insurance Act 1970; Land (Facilitation of Dealings) Act 1970; Land Use Act 1969.

Labour and Employment

The Cook Islands Party, when it is returned to power will establish a new Act on Labour and Employment, thus bringing up to date the provisions of the Labour and Industrial Union of Workers Ordinance 1953. The new Act, besides reviewing the provisions on Unions and their registration, it will also define conditions of employment, hours of work, methods of settling awards for all trades and professions outside of government. Provisions will also be made on work undertaken under contracts.

Marketing

(1) Overseas - During its first two terms in office, the Cook Islands Party carried out its promise that it will investigate possibilities of selling Cook Islands produce in other countries. Continuous negotiations and attendance at trade conferences, together with the formation of the South Pacific Forum, a clear understanding is becoming evident in the development of "overseas" markets as far as developing countries are concerned. The Party, however, is confident that new developments in this field will shortly take place because other Pacific territories are also interested and more so in the promotion of inter-territorial trade arrangements. The Party will continue to hold talks and plan for the extension of marketing possibilities for the Cook Islands.

Trading with New Zealand continues to be satisfactory and the Party will continue to strengthen the understanding between our two countries.

(2) Local - Plans are being prepared in conjunction with the progress of marketing Schemes of national importance, to include the setting-up of an organised system of local marketing; where the buying and selling of Outer Islands produce can be done with Harotonga as an outlet.

Shipping

The Cook Islands Party is always aware of the vital importance of shipping to the economic welfare of the people. The government will continue with its plans to assist the development of an efficient overseas shipping service and at the same time realise the necessity of an adequate inter-island service.

Harbours

The problems of harbour facilities and development have always been present in programmes of improved services in the Cook Islands, nevertheless, the Cook Islands Party is somewhat satisfied that, due to the perseverance of its leader in a planned development for the harbour at Avatiu, this new facility is now a commercial asset to the Cook Islands. Plans have been prepared for further extensions to the harbour to provide anchorages, moorings and service areas for small boats and over-seas yachts. The Party also plans to examine other aspects of harbour development, both at Avatiu and at Avarua for better service to the shipping requirements and to the handling of cargo. Developments have also started in Aitutaki, while continuous attention has been given to the Mangaia Harbour.

With the extension of pineapple production to the island of Atiu, the development of a good harbour for that island is needed. The work on the harbour and landings at Atiu is to be started in 1972; soon to be followed by similar developments to other islands. The Party has plans to investigate cargo transport methods by sea, if landings are too costly and difficult to improve.

Tourism

The Cook Islands Party, while recognising the economic value of a Tourist Industry, also believes that the social results of unfettered tourism are such as to warrant the closest study being given to any proposals for the development of tourism in the Cook Islands. During its first term as Government, the Party, besides forming a Tourist Development Council, it also studied the development of tourism in other neighbouring Pacific territories. Immediately on becoming the Government again in 1969, it began into motion plans and programmes for a tourist industry for the Cook Islands. The Tourist Authority Act 1968 was passed with the purpose of encouraging and administering a tourist industry, and to define the powers and functions of the Authority.

In order to promote its development, government adopted sets of codes; known as the "Incentive Code"; the "Accommodation Code"; and a "Limit of Licences Code". The Tourist Authority, acting on policy directions from government, issued licences for the construction and operation of visitor accommodation facilities in Rarotonga. The first international standard hotel for the Cook Islands is expected to be completed in time for the opening of the airport in 1975.

The Party supports: "That Tourism should not be the means for us to change our way of life, but as an incentive to make us become aware of who and what we are, in terms of our culture, customs and traditions."

If the Cook Islands Party is re-elected it will:

- (a) continue to develop a planned programme for a visitor industry with emphasis being placed on the restoration of marine sites; historical sites, and the revival of legends, stories and dance patterns which will be incorporated into our programmes for entertainment.
- (b) continue to promote constitution celebrations, entertainment programmes and the National Arts Theatre as ideal presentations for visitor satisfaction.
- (c) encourage local participation in many aspects of the new industry, while at the same foster investments of foreign capital.
- (d) promote local arts and crafts and the declaration of duty free areas
- (e) continue with planning and investigations into the potential for tourism for islands in the Outer Islands.
- (f) continue with a programme of promotion and the introduction of training schemes for the benefit of all those interested and wishing to find their vocation in tourism.

Works and Communications

The Cook Islands Party's general policy on Works and Communications is:

To provide an effective ancillary and supportive service system (in Works) for the promotion of economic and social development through the construction or provision and maintenance of the necessary infra-structure in roads, harbours, transportation, buildings, water, electricity and other facilities; and to provide an effective system of communications both national and international for the benefit of all the people of the Cook Islands."

In implementing this policy the Cook Islands Party adopts the principle that the needs of the people must always be the paramount consideration, and services and programmes must therefore be designed to meet people's needs in all areas and in all islands. Particular attention will always be given to the needs of island councils, district councils and village committees, in fact, programmes of work and projects by these local bodies will always receive the highest priority.

During the Party's first two terms as Government it faced many problems and difficulties in providing adequate services in all areas. There were insufficient numbers of trained personnel in most fields and machinery, equipment and heavy plant were inadequate to meet all existing demands. Administrative policies which were carried over from the previous Government had to be changed in order that the Party's second plank in its Platform can be put into practice, thus allowing, where possible, the introduction, extension or expansion of major servicing activities to the Outer Islands instead of confining them to Rarotonga alone. However, despite these difficulties, the Cook Islands Party has achieved much in a short term of seven years.

Since Internal Self-Government, the major part of the Party's Capital Works programme has been completed. Some projects which were started recently are to be completed soon. Some of the projects which were undertaken by the Department of Works and Communications are: Expansion and extending electric power services in Rarotonga and Aitutaki, and the installation of electric power supply into Mauke; Improved and extended reticulation of water supply in Rarotonga as well as in Aitutaki and Mauke; Completion of tar-sealing of main road in Rarotonga, and assisted other road works on all islands through the island councils and village committees; Expansion of telephone services in Rarotonga; Construction of government buildings and schools; Aviation and Aitutaki Harbour Works; Ancillary and supportive services to the construction of the Rarotonga Airport.

IF THE COOK ISLANDS PARTY is returned as the Government, it will continue to foster its general policy on Works and Communications and provide new and improved services to all the people of the Cook Islands in a more specialised and organised manner under the following headings:

- (a) WATER SUPPLY: The Cook Islands Party recognises the importance of water in both domestic use and in national development needs. It is aware of the inadequacies of our present system and the necessity to up-grade water supplies in order that safe and adequate quantities of water can be provided to meet all needs. It therefore proposes to introduce an intensive programme of water development in all the inhabited islands of the Group. The Cook Islands Party believes that the supply of water to domestic users shall be provided free, and a policy to this effect has already been put into operation.
- (b) ELECTRIC POWER SUPPLY: In order to assist consumers in receiving the supply of electricity in Rarotonga, Aitutaki and Mauke, the Party introduced a 'pay-as-you-use' system for the installation of electricity and this policy will be continued until most of the homes are provided with Electricity. The Party will also proceed with its programme of extending electric power services to other islands in the Cook Islands.

- (c) RADIO COMMUNICATIONS: The Cook Islands Party believing in the need for improved communications as a means of maintaining a link with the outside world, has been most successful in introducing most up-to-date systems of communications. The Party will continue upgrading our communications systems and introducing, for the benefit of the country, modern means of communications as they become available.
- (d) PUBLIC WORKS: The Cook Islands Party acknowledges the need to maintain an effective ancillary and supportive development system for the promotion of economic and social development, through the construction or provision and maintenance of the necessary infra-structure. It is also becoming aware of the development of industries and other services in the private sector and the need for government to give every possible support. Government may do this in many ways of which one or two ways would be to provide technical services wherever these are needed, and to pass over to private enterprise such activities as may be deemed desirable, taking into account the nature of those activities and the interests shown by the private sector. The Party will also investigate the possibilities of having many of the government activities being carried out by private enterprise on contract basis. The Party will also continue with the policy of giving such assistance as may be required by island councils, district councils and village committees in all the islands of the Cook Islands.

Post Office

In establishing the Post Office as a separate department of government, the Cook Islands Party recognises the importance of maintaining the services provided by the department to be in line with the trends in other countries. The Post Office services throughout the Cook Islands beside being expanded and improved will also include some new provisions:

- the introduction of automatic telephones and the extension of telephone services to the Outer Islands,
- the commencement of a mobile Post Office service in Rarotonga as a means of bringing the facilities of the post office into the districts and the villages,
- the continuance of the Post Office savings bank service and the introduction of savings schemes,
- the continued support of the activities of the philatelic office and the expansion of such activities as their demand increases.

Town Planning

In realising the importance of planned development, the Cook Islands Party is to consolidate the activities of the Town Planning Council and to promote town planning schemes for land development. It is also proposed to produce a town planning scheme for each of the main centres on Rarotonga and Aitutaki and to extend such planning to other islands as the people through their island councils request for such schemes. Schemes for development of industrial and commercial propositions together with land schemes for agriculture and housing will also receive attention. The Party is also prepared to implement plans for the introduction of a comprehensive sewage scheme, particularly with the advent of the visitor industry.

SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

Health

The general policy of the Cook Islands Party on Health is to provide the best possible comprehensive health services, both preventative and curative for every individual residing in the Cook Islands.

In implementing this policy, the Cook Islands Party realises the importance of providing up to date facilities, modern equipment and supplies and trained personnel in all aspects of health care.

During its first two terms of office, beginning in 1965, the Cook Islands Party has:-

- (a) started a comprehensive programme of hospital development in Rarotonga and the Outer Islands, which includes a new hospital in Rarotonga; the commencement of the construction on a new hospital in Aitutaki; a new hospital for Atiu; an extension to the Mangaia hospital; a dispensary for Nassau and another dispensary for Palmerston; a clinic for Mitiaro and improvements to child welfare clinics and dental clinics in most of the islands in the Cook Group.
 - (b) provided all hospitals and dispensaries with modern surgical, medical and dental equipment and supplies necessary for the effective delivery of service.
 - (c) in particular, the Rarotonga and Aitutaki hospitals, where when completed will have equipment, supplies and service equivalent to any fully equipped modern hospital.
 - (d) effected a comprehensive programme of health manpower development, through the implementation of local training schemes and the promotion of overseas training courses.
 - (e) the local training schemes include: Nurse training; laboratory; X-Ray and dispensary training; Health inspectors training; and dental hygienist training.
- Specialised training courses for doctors with participation at conferences and seminars were started as part of the overseas programme.
- Overseas courses for doctors, dentists, nurses, health technicians and inspectors were continued in Fiji and New Zealand. Further overseas specialised post-graduate courses for doctors were also started and strongly supported by the Government.
- Established and strengthened meaningful working relationships with international agencies and institutions concerned with health work. In particular, World Health Organisation, South Pacific Commission, University of Hawaii, East West Center, Medical Council of New Zealand, the New Zealand Medical Education Federation and the Auckland Medical School.
- stepped-up programmes in disease control and prevention throughout the Cook Group, e.g. filariasis, tuberculosis, venereal diseases and intestinal-parasites in children.
- Of all the economic resources that the world depends upon for its existence and sustenance - none is as important as its people.... its health must therefore be included in the overall development of a nation.
- When the Cook Islands Party returns to power as Government it will:-
- (a) foster this principle and continue its general policy on health.
 - (b) continue to provide and improve the present health services and programmes throughout the Cook Group.

Education

The general policy of the Cook Islands Party on Education is to provide: "Free and compulsory education at both the primary and secondary levels, and the giving of grants and assistance in other aspects of education as may be determined from time to time."

The Party also supports the concept of providing a "living educational programme" that will suit the basic economic, social and cultural needs of the people of the Cook Islands. The basic curriculum, therefore, should be:-

- (i) to cater for the needs and abilities of pupils and scholars at all levels;
- (ii) to apply methods to satisfy those needs;
- (iii) to set standards for the extension of these abilities.
- To support such a curriculum, the Party also recognizes the need for well equipped schools, trained and competent personnel, capable of applying modern educational methods, and the provision of schools on each island and in each village and district.

DURING THE FIRST TWO YEARS, since 1965, the Cook Islands Party has:-

(a) continued to give support to programmes organized for each level in the system, and where possible encouraged expansion and improvement.

- (b) continued to give its full support to the teaching of both the English and the Maori languages in schools.
- (c) offered encouragement for continued attention to be given in the Primary Schools to Maori traditions, folklore and crafts, with the aim of promoting in children a respect for, and pride in, their Polynesian inheritance;
- (d) introduced a programme for Maori Culture into the Secondary Schools.

- (f) supported the principle for higher education through the introduction of the 5th form at Tereora College, the continuation of the New Zealand scholarship scheme, and the expansion of the overseas training programmes in New Zealand and Fiji.
- (g) taken steps to improve schools and classroom facilities, with extensions at Tereora College, a new training centre for teachers, and new schools and classrooms in the Outer Islands.
- (h) recognised the need for more trained teachers, through the re-organisation of the scheme for training of teachers, by raising the standard of admission to the training centre, by extending the period of training to three years, by introducing modern methods of teaching and by providing a new complex at Tereora for teacher training.
- (i) supported the principle of continuing with the recruitment of overseas teachers for Secondary School teaching.
- (j) took steps necessary for the Assembly to pass the Education Act.
- WHERE the Cook Islands Party is re-elected as government, - it will:-
- (a) encourage the continuation and expansion of the programmes and methods now experienced in our schools.

Internal Affairs

When the Cook Islands Party came into power in 1965, one of its main aims was to prepare and implement a comprehensive social development programme. It recognised the need to examine the various social and cultural problems affecting the people in the villages and in the Outer Islands. It also recognised the activities of other government agencies, such as health inspectors; and the work of voluntary organisations. The Party, however, felt the need for more work in the field of social welfare, and in 1967, it established the Department of Internal Affairs. The department is to continue with the work previously started in the social welfare field, implement the provisions of the aged, Destitute and Infirm Persons Relief Act 1966 and promote a system of Community Development in accordance with the principles laid down in the Local Government Act 1966. Besides administering these two Acts, the department was also given other responsibilities to look after.

In promoting a programme of Community Development, the Party has come to accept the meaning of Community Development as that which is contained in an internationally accepted usage which is: "the processes by which the efforts of the people themselves are united with those of governmental authorities to improve the economic, social and cultural conditions of communities to integrate these communities into the life of the nation, and to enable them to contribute fully to national progress."

This complex of processes is then made up of two essential elements: the participation of the people themselves in efforts to improve their own level of living with as much reliance as possible on their own initiative, and the provision of technical and other services in ways which encourage initiative, self-help, and mutual help and make these more effective.

The Party is also aware of the importance of its own policy aim: "to mould all the islands and their inhabitants into one united land and people." -and looked upon the department to do all that is possible for the carrying out of this aim.

DURING the Cook Islands Party's first two terms of office, the Party has:-

- (a) -organised the functions of the department of Internal Affairs so as to give effective service, through the establishment of a Housing Authority, a Tourist Authority and a Corporation to administer the Broadcasting and Newspaper services.
- (b) expanded the scope of assisting the aged, destitute and infirm persons through the setting up of cottage industries.
- (c) encouraged the activities of local organisations, and established a Cook Islands Women's Federation; a Religious Advisory Council; and made available grants and assistance to local organisations for the construction of, and improvement to, seating houses, community centres, clinics and playcentres.
- (d) affected programmes of Community Development and assisted Island Councils, village committees and District Councils in carrying out their work.
- (e) introduced a Labour and Employment Bureau as well as encouraging beautification schemes.
- (f) organised programmes to cater for functions and visits and gave assistance to tour parties, as well as giving aid to youth groups and promoting annual celebrations for Constitution Day.
- (g) assisted the establishment of a National Arts Theatre, and an Arts & Crafts Centre in conjunction with the Women's Federation.

When the Cook Islands Party is returned to power, it will:

- continue with its programme of giving assistance and aid to local organizations and groups.
- continue with its programme of Community Development.
- continue with the catering of the needs of tour parties, entertainment groups, and annual celebrations, rallies and conferences.

IN PARTICULAR, it will:

- promote town planning and beautification schemes; and establish public reserves, national parks and a programme to preserve and develop waterfront areas for the benefit of our people and visitors.
- promote the establishment of youth centres, sports pavilions; promote the improvements to sports grounds and foster the establishment of Arts and Crafts Centres.
- assist programmes of vocational training for young men and women.
- assist and give support, wherever possible, to church activities, in close co-operation with the Religious Advisory Council.
- support social pension schemes and emergency aid in accordance with the Aged, Destitute and Infirm Persons Relief Act 1965. Subject to the availability of the necessary finance on a continuing basis, consideration will be given to the possible expansion of these social services.
- make investigations into schemes and possible sources of earning revenues to assist the financing of its welfare programmes.
- continue to promote the activities of the Printing Office, Presser and the Hotel; and to make opportunities available for expansion, these revenue earning divisions of the department may have to be transferred to a corporation responsible for trade and commerce.

Local Government

The change of status of government for the Cook Islands, as a result of the introduction of Internal Self-Government in 1965, also created the need to make certain changes to the system of local government. The passing of the Local Government Act 1965 was the first step in the establishment of a new system, and to provide for the introduction of community development.

The tasks involving maintenance of roads, clearing of drains and flood areas, and housing assistance were taken over by Village Committees. In addition, new road development to planting areas, restoration and preservation of historical sites, and maintenance of recreational areas were also part of a village committee programme. In some villages and on some islands, assistance to Government projects by way of voluntary labour was also given. Some of these included: reticulation of water supply, electric power supply extensions and construction of government buildings.

In the overall system of local government, there are changes still required to be made to allow the people to take more active participation in the administration of the village and island affairs.

When the Party becomes the Government again, it will:-

- introduce a District Council system for Harotonga, and where necessary extend this approach to other islands of the Group.
- examine and review all Council by-laws; and all aspects of island council accounting and methods of collecting revenue.
- introduce a new system for the supply of materials and the provision of machinery for village committee and island council projects.

Housing

The Cook Islands Party's general policy on housing is: the provision and the implementation of a housing programme that will provide everyone with the opportunity of possessing better homes, in order to lift up to increased heights, our family life, while in the same vein, maintain a reflection of our culture and customs in the choice of aesthetic architecture, functional lay-out and the composition of construction materials."

The enactment of the Housing Authority Act 1965, is the realization by a Cook Islands Party Government of the need to establish and define the activities of an authority, in the development of housing in the Cook Islands. It was also aimed at removing difficulties and delays in the scheme of improved housing conditions for our people. Since 1965, the Party Government has:-

- (a) extended non-security housing loans to $800 and established a "Special Housing Loan Scheme"
- (b) encouraged and granted loans for the construction of homes beyond the 'non-security' limit.
- (c) introduced contract methods for construction.

IF THE NEXT GOVERNMENT is a Cook Islands Party Government, it will:

- (a) continue with the "non-security" and the "Special Loans" schemes.
- (b) continue with the granting of loans for houses costing beyond the 'non-security' limit.
- (c) continue and where necessary improve on methods of construction of homes by contractors.

IN PARTICULAR: it will

- (a) promote town planning schemes and development of land areas for residential, commercial and industrial requirements.
- (b) plan and organise schemes for the improvement of housing conditions in crowded areas, and areas with sub-standard housing. Such schemes to be implemented to the satisfaction of both the homeowner and the landowner.
- (c) foster training programmes for carpenters and allied trade skills.

Information Services

The general policy of the Cook Islands Party on Information Services is: "To provide an effective media for the dissemination of information and knowledge to the people of the Cook Islands, and to provide opportunities which will enable them to gain increased knowledge and understanding in the affairs of their country, of other countries and their people, and to gain an appreciation of their cultural arts and of those of the world we live in."

In accordance with previous policies of the Cook Islands Party, a re-organised information centre has been set up under the provisions of the Broadcasting and Newspaper Corporation Act 1970-71. With the introduction of commercial broadcasting, the new service could almost support a greater proportion of its operation costs. A corporation approach to the broadcasting and newspaper services, is an indication of Government's intention to offer a greater degree for free expression.

Since 1965 when the Party first became the Government and also in recent years, the hours for broadcasting have been extended to cover every day of the week, while the newspaper format and circulation have both improved. A newspaper for the island of Aitutaki was started in 1970.

- (e) continue with the expansion of the newspaper service in Harotonga as well as the Outer Islands.
- (f) examine the present license system, and as the income from advertising increases, the licensing system shall be revoked.
- (g) explore the possibilities of establishing a Pacific wide broadcasting service utilising the resources of the Corporation.

The Party Government - if returned to power - will always consider all new proposals - to improve - all services to all the people.

Justice

The Cook Islands Party accepts as general policy for the Justice Department:

"The establishment of a Hall of Justice for the Cook Islands for the preservation of a judicial heritage, in which the freedom in society and the rights of the individual are protected, measures of economic stability are maintained and the fostering of those things conducive to social happiness."

Since Internal Self-Government was introduced in 1965, the Department of Justice has expanded, in scope of responsibilities, at the same rate as the rapid growth of the country in aspects of development. The Cook Islands Party Government, during its first two terms of office, drew attention to the fact that, with rapidly changing social and economic conditions new social problems were being met with the need to provide solutions to these problems. In addition the procedures, functions and rules of the courts were the subjects of such needed review. Other services, such as office for registration of companies, a new penal code and the establishment of a Lands Division within the Department, all became added responsibilities for the department. The Party however, has introduced many changes during the last seven years, which included:

- (a) a probation service and the appointment of a public defender.
- (b) a committee on the prevention of juvenile crime.
- (c) the taking over of the responsibilities of the administration of prisons; and the introduction of a scheme for the training and rehabilitation of inmates.
- (d) the introduction and the review of legislation for the effective and efficient operation of the department and for the needs of the country. Some of these new laws are: Criminal Justice Act 1967; Crimes Act 1969; Prisons Act 1967 and Regulations; Commission of Inquiries Act 1967; Companies Act 1970; and of course, the introduction of a jury system.
- (e) the establishment of an office for the registration of Companies, and the consolidation of a Lands Division in conjunction with the Department of Survey.

When the Cook Islands Party Government is returned to power, it will:

- (a) continue with all the services now in operation.
- (b) continue with the reviews and the introduction of laws for the effective administration of Justice.

Land

The Cook Islands Party's general policy on land is

"The application of a process whereby peaceful agreement is reached for the development of units of land, in parts or as a whole, through the full utilization of the area or areas, in order that the occupier or owner will benefit and be it subsequently recognized as contributing to the welfare and economy of the country, and the preservation of the right of use by succession and the privilege of ownership by inheritance."

The Cook Islands Party believe that it is essential that the land system and its administration by the Land Court should have the fullest confidence of the people. The Party believes that committees of traditional leaders and other landowners can do much to arrive at acceptable solutions to local land problems. The committees could take into account traditional Maori land customs and how they may be related to present day conditions.

To try to overcome some of the problems in obtaining land for agricultural purposes, the Government introduced the Short Term Crop Leases Act 1966 which was improved by a later amendment, by extending the maximum term to five years.

After studying land development schemes in other countries, and realising the importance to the people of the Cook Islands of land rights and rights to use land, the Party Government introduced two new laws pertaining to land, during its second term of office.

Land Use and Land Dealings

The Land Use Act 1969 was passed with the main aim of putting into effect purposes and schemes for land uses by the issue of zoning orders, and providing a Board to hear and determine objections applications and inquiries on land use. This Act, when in operation will assist schemes of orderly and effective development and uses of land areas.

The Land(Facilitation of Dealings) Act 1970 on the other hand, is to facilitate dealings in land by providing for the incorporation of "owners" of land and powers of assembled "owners". The objects of incorporation include:

- (i) the development of land as a plantation or farm and to carry on any agricultural or pastoral business thereon.
- (ii) to use the land for the growing of timber and for mining or for any other enterprise in relation to land.
- (iii) to engage in the management and operations of schemes in relation to land.
- (iv) to arrange for leases of land within the "ownership" of the body corporate.

Ko te policy a te Cook Islands Party no te taitou Enua: o te au e jere te arikianga a to taton i te tangata no runga i te au raveanga kimi paupinga e te taangaanga i to taton enua: e i roto i teia au raveanga taangaanga o te enua, kia riro mai teia ei paupinga no te tangata e taangaanga nei i te enua, e pera katoa te au atu o teia enua, e kia riro katoa teia nei ra ei paupinga katoa no te baseleia: Kia vai katoa te tikaanga o te au tangata rava rai ki roto i te ratou au enua, e rauka rava teia kia vaku: Auraka katoa to taton au enua e tika ia kia oko ia."

(iv) Te taangaanga i te enua na roto i te lease anga atu i te enua, au auano te au atu enua kia pera.

If the Party is re-elected, it will:

- (a) continue with the principle of giving protection to land-owners in all aspects of land use, and development relating to land. The inclusion into the Tourist Industry "Incentive Code" of the provisions for land owners participation, by way of paid up shares to the extent of 10% of equity capital, in hotel and other accommodation facility development, is an indication of a Party Government's interests in the welfare of land owners.
- (b) put into effect the provisions of the new Acts, on land use and land dealings, only when the owners and the people concerned understand fully the benefits they may derive from the uses and the dealings that are related to their land. A land advisory service will be established in the Lands Division of the Department of Justice.
- (c) continue with the aims of revising the procedures and functions of the land court, and the services available to assist the development of land, so that these may be brought up to date with a more clarified and standardized interpretation of Maori customs.
- (d) foster the work of Select Committees of the Assembly and committees of traditional leaders and other landowners; together with the examination of methods, and the investigation into matters related to Maori customs, land laws and leases.
- (e) give every effort to assist land development schemes for agriculture, industries, housing, tourism and other enterprises.

Police

The Cook Islands Party's general policy for the Police Department is:

"The provision of an institution in society, upon which the people will depend, as an institution responsible for the enforcement and preservation of law and order, and for the promotion of safety in living, in accordance with the desire of the people to remain respectful of order and exist in a peace loving society."

The Cook Islands Party supports the belief that it is essential to have an effective and a well trained Police Force. There is such a substance to this belief as can be seen in the training programmes established within the department of Police. The government also gave its support to overseas training courses and observation visits by members of the Force. A scheme to recruit female officers has also been started. The Police Act 1957, establishes the department and provides for the declaration of the powers and functions of the Police Force. The Police Department also administers the Transport Act 1966, the Transport Licensing Act 1967, the Gaming Act 1967 and the Registration of Dogs Act 1970. The Department, also controls the administration of traffic laws and regulations.

If re-elected, the Cook Islands Party will:

- (i) do all within its powers to maintain the present high standard of our Police Force.
- (ii) continue to support the training programmes, both local and overseas, that are being conducted for members of the Force.
- (iii) promote those activities connected with the administration of the various Acts under the jurisdiction of the Department.

Public Service

The Party's general policy concerning the Public Service is: "To appoint to the service, those men and women dedicated to the cause of greater prosperity and increased social welfare of the Cook Islands. The Party also recognizes the need to provide some measure of incentive by regular reviews of salary levels; a degree of impartiality in the appointment and promotion of officers; and security of positions in the Cook Islands Public Service.

Since Internal Self-Government was introduced in 1965, many changes have taken place in the field of government management in relation to its public service. The Public Service Act 1969, provides for a Commission to control the service, and the recognition of the Public Service Association Inc. as the representative organisation for all public servants. Reviews of salaries, overseas training courses and the expansion of the scholarship scheme were activities carried out with full government support during the last seven years.

Efforts were also made in improvements to office accommodation facilities, working hours and working conditions, and adequate leave periods during this time. The government has always recognized the need to offer Cook Islanders in the service, encouragement and promotion opportunities, particularly in view of the "Scheme of Co-operation" governing the recruitment and employment of imported officers. Although some actions have been taken to replace imported officers with local appointees, there is still the need to retain in the Cook Islands public service a reasonable number of imported officers, particularly in the field of education.

If the Cook Islands Party is returned as the government again it will:-

- (i) expedite the full implementation of the new scales of salaries, and the introduction of a new method for grading and promotion.
- (ii) continue with its present policy of replacing imported officers, where necessary, by local appointees.
- (iii) recognize locally appointed European employees in the Public Service, who have made the Cook Islands their homes, and by marriage to Cook Islanders; where they will not be replaced, as if they were imported officers, unless they are found incompetent.
- (iv) consolidate the present policy of giving recognition to officers of long service and experience, while at the same time recognize those with particular qualifications and give every encouragement needed to obtain a high standard in the public service.

CAUCUS 1968 1972

- (v) further promote at the departmental level, in-service training programmes, overseas training and observation courses and the overseas scholarship scheme.

IN PARTICULAR, it will:-

- (i)take positive steps to replace with local appointees, all positions which are now held by imported officers; except in the field of education, where imported teachers at Tereora College, the training centre, the Side School and Junior High Schools, are still needed.
Imported officers, however, may be appointed as consultants or in an advisory capacity as they are needed, and on such terms and length of period of employment as each position may demand.
- (ii)provide for locally appointed departmental heads and senior officers, a scheme of overseas leave periods, accompanied by their wives, such leave periods to be taken in association with attendances at conferences, seminars and training courses overseas.
- (iii)introduce a "Home Establishment Scheme" for employees of government. Under the scheme, the government will make available loan finance; land for house sites on lease and government houses, not required, may be purchased and leased.

Staff and employees of Corporations and Authorities, will be entitled to all the facilities and privileges of the Public Service; except that they do not qualify for superannuation benefits within the Public Service. The government, however, is in the course of preparing a national provident scheme, of which the employees of Corporations and Authorities and other employees may take advantage of the new scheme.
